

Girl Scouts organize a food drive

Free Press Staff

Olivia, Julia and Katie of Girl Scout Troop 30075 in Jericho were not interested in working to earn Girl Scout patches. They wanted instead to dedicate their time and efforts toward community service.

They organized a food drive in Jericho and Essex Junction to support the Sara Holbrook Emergency Food Pantry.

They delivered a huge load of food and personal care items, and even some crafting supplies for the children in the SHCC afterschool programs.

Left to right: Olivia, Julia and Katie of Girl Scout Troop 30075 in Jericho pose with the food they collected. COURTESY